Part one - About this guide

Background

Valuation Officers are required by law to periodically compile and maintain a local rating list for each Billing Authority (BA). In England and Wales there are currently around 340 billing authorities.

The draft version of any rating list is not a live instance of the list. Assessments contained in a draft list will not attract a rateable charge until the list is compiled and brought into force.

Introduction

Publishing the 2026 draft list enables interested parties, or their representatives, to:

- review assessments
- check for factual errors
- establish their rateable value and estimate their rateable charge

prior to the compiled list coming into force on the 1st April 2026.

If you need help with this guide or the subjects covered within, please email us rldownloads

Record formats

All records in our draft rating list datasets are held using the same record format. Files are ASCII text files comprising variable length fields delimited by an asterisk. The files have an extension of "csv". Records are separated by a Carriage Return/Line Feed. No data items should contain an asterisk.

APIs

Our use of cloud technology enables users to interact with our downloads using APIs. This provides users with the opportunity to monitor our downloads for change and obtain copies automatically.

Two types of API are available. HTTP based ReST APIs for maximum interoperability, and .NET APIs specifically for MS developers.

Advanced users and developers are referred to the MS documentation concerned. For information, the ReST API command that returns an xml document listing all our available draft rating list downloads and their last modification timestamp is:

<https://voaratinglists.blob.core.windows.net/downloads?restype=container&comp=list>

The command may be pasted directly in the address bar of web browsers. Some web browsers display xml documents differently to others.

Part two - Draft rating list entry data

List entry data explained

Draft rating list entries mirror what will, if unchanged, be used by billing authorities to calculate rates bills when the list comes into force on 1st April 2026. Entries are made of several sections, each one performing a particular role as follows:

Reference number and address

These two data items are used to identify the unit of property, (known as a rating hereditament), that the remainder of the list entry relates to. Whilst the BA Reference Number is currently displayed in the draft rating list, you should use the Valuation Office Agency's (VOA) Unique Address Reference Number, (UARN), instead.

Hereditaments persist across lists. They are shown in both rating and council tax lists whenever they meet specific conditions requiring them to be shown in one or other or both. Over time, a hereditament will have accumulated multiple entries shown in multiple lists.

You can find the full definition of a rating hereditament in the Local Government Finance Act 1988 section 64, and the specific conditions rating hereditaments must meet each day to be shown in a rating list in section 42.

Rateable value and effective date

These two data items are used as a measure of the hereditaments rental value as at the 1st April 2024, with effect from the specific day that a rates bill calculation should use it.

You can find the full definition of rateable value in the Local Government Finance Act 1988 schedule 6 paragraph 2, and the rules for effective dates in the Non-Domestic Rating (Alteration of Lists and Appeals) (England) Regulations 2009 regulation 14, as amended by Non-Domestic Rating (Alteration of Lists and Appeals) (England) Regulations 2017 regulation 17, and the Non-Domestic Rating (Alteration of Lists and Appeals) (Wales) Regulations 2005 regulation 14, as amended.

Descriptions, special category codes and valuation scheme references

These data items are used to enable ratepayers to compare their rateable value with the rateable values of similar properties valued the same way.

Descriptions and description codes of the same type are a primary means of comparing properties (hereditaments) we have valued the same way. You may also wish to use our special category codes and suffix as well or instead. Where available, our valuation scheme reference provided with our summary valuation data definitively groups properties together whose valuations have been carried out the same way.

Valuation indicators

Some units of property (hereditaments) are not always made up of entirely the same property type. For example, some may be comprised of both domestic accommodation and non-domestic space; Others of space that is deemed exempt from rating and a remainder that is not.

Hereditaments made of these mixed types are valued differently from those of an entirely non-domestic type. Specifically, their rateable values are an apportionment of the value of the whole to the non-domestic part, and this may make their rateable values different from entirely non-domestic types.

It is therefore important when making comparisons between our rental valuations to know which properties have been valued which way. The following indicators allow these distinctions to be made:

- Composite: The unit of property is comprised of both non-domestic and domestic property types.

Part three - Weekly change-updates

Change-update data explained

List entries

The draft list epoch provides a snapshot of the draft rating lists as at the end of a specific day, initially 14th November 2025. They also provide the full history of list entries for each unit of property (hereditament) shown in that draft rating list.

The epoch will be refreshed periodically. For example, our 2017 epochs are currently refreshed bi-monthly. Some users may want to know about changes to the draft lists in advance of our epochs or learn more about the changes incorporated into them. In such cases our weekly change-updates can help.

Each change-update file accumulates the weekly changes made to the draft list until the next bi-monthly epoch, when a new cycle of epoch & change-updates begins again.

Our change-updates are available from the same location as our epochs. The downloads share the same root file name as the epoch to which they relate and should be applied in the sequence indicated by the remainder of their file name. Change-updates relating to the next epoch may continue to be applied to a previous epoch, provided all change-updates relating to the previous epoch have been applied first.

Additional fields present in list entry change-updates

Records in our change-updates include additional information explaining the changes concerned. Specifically:

- Case Type: The type of work used to respond to the events from which the change originated, mapping to our legal duties and ancillary operations. See Appendix 5 for more information.
- Report Number: A reference number from the related Billing Authorities' system identifying their report about the originating change events.
- Change Code: A two digit encoding of the reason for a list entry being inserted, amended or deleted into a rating list. Multiple change codes related to the same case indicate a set of logical operations carried out together in response to an originating event. A full list of change codes is provided at Appendix 6.
- Change Reason: A textual description of the change code. See also Appendix 6.
- Status: A single digit code distinguishing list entries that should be used to calculating a business rates bill going forward (status 2), from list entries that are made historical (status 3), or more historical (status 4), by the update.
- Trans Cert Ind: A single digit code indicating that, in addition to the list entries changed by the update, preceding list entries would have also been altered but for law preventing us. Certificates contain details of what those list entries would have been.

You will find the fields for our change-update list entries in the table that follows below.

Summary valuations

As with all our draft list entry records, you will find the related summary valuations in a corresponding downloadable change-update summary valuation file. Records in change-update summary valuation files are identical to the summary valuation records in our epochs (see part four below).

Part four - Draft rating list summary valuation data

Summary valuation data explained

Overview

Our summary valuations data is comprised of seven types of records:

01	Related list entry
02	Line items (multi line)
03	Additional items (multi line)
04	Plant and machinery
05	Car parking
06	Adjustments (multi line)
07	Adjustments totals

The first record type (01) enables the other six record types to be related to the rateable value of a list entry. The remaining six record types (02 to 07) provide the parts of our valuation which make up the whole.

Items belonging to these six record types include references to the survey item valued, the price applied and the total.

Record types 02 to 05 can be aggregated to form a basic valuation of the hereditament. Record type 06 provides a list of percentage adjustments and reasons why. Record type 07 shows the result of applying the adjustments of record type 06 and should equal the value shown as item 19 in record type 01. After rounding, the final rateable value is shown in item 20 of record type 01.

Technical Arrangement

The technical arrangement of our summary valuation data is as follows:

- Fields are in the exact order in which they are listed in this file specification.
- Records are broken down into Types. Each Type represents a different part of the record.
- Each record will begin with Type '01' data
- For each record type '01', there is one or more record type '02's containing Survey Line Item data.
- There may be zero or more of record types '03' and '06'.
- There may be zero or one of record types '04' and '05'.
- If a record type '06' exists, there will be one record type '07'
- The end of a record is only indicated by the next row of Type '01' data or the end of the file.
- The file contains summary valuations for both current and historic entries.

You should use this information to read the file into formal data structures.
